

The IELP offers five levels of instruction.

Each level includes courses in composition, communication, listening, grammar and reading.

Level One: beginning to low intermediate

Level Two: intermediate

Level Three: low advanced

Level Four: advanced

Level Five: high advanced

Placement into the IELP is determined through a combination of an Institutional TOEFL (or prior TOEFL) and written exam proctored during orientation.

With a low student-to-faculty ratio, UF's seven dedicated and experienced full-time faculty members work individually with students.

Welcome to the IELP!

The University of Findlay's IELP offers innovative programs, designed to increase English proficiency, to assist with adjustment to life in the United States and to facilitate academic success.

The IELP is an academic department designed to strengthen students' English skills prior to students entering their undergraduate or graduate programs. Successful completion of the IELP waives the TOEFL or IELTS requirement for admission at UF.

Undergraduate Program

The University of Findlay offers nearly 60 undergraduate bachelor's degree programs and many fun on-campus activities.

Students who have a TOEFL score of 500 or higher, an IBT of 61 or an IELTS score of 6 and a 2.0 GPA may apply for direct admission into the undergraduate program. Other students may be eligible for conditional admission through the IELP.

All students who are accepted into the undergraduate program are eligible for an International Scholar Award, valued at $8,000 per year. This award is not applied to summer sessions or the IELP.
